McKinnon-Mulherin Inc. Names New President

Salt Lake City — McKinnon-Mulherin, a Salt Lake City-based communication firm, is pleased to announce the appointment of Paige Frame as President effective January 1, 2017. Frame is currently the Director of Operations at McKinnon-Mulherin, and previously worked as Manager of Custom Projects from 2010 to 2014. While in the position of Director of Operations, Frame managed all Projects Department resources and had HR, IT, R & D, Training and Operations responsibilities. As President, Frame will supervise and control all strategic and business aspects of the company, including overseeing all divisions, operations and business activities to ensure they produce the desired results and are consistent with McKinnon-Mulherin's overall strategy and mission.

"I am honored to take on this new role, especially as McKinnon-Mulherin enters its twentieth year," said Frame. "We have a great team, and I look forward to working with them and the board to keep building on McKinnon-Mulherin's many successes."

Kate Reddy – who has served as President of the Company since 2013 and as co-president with co-owner Shauna Bona since 1997 – will maintain her role as Board President.

"I am excited to have Paige take over as president. She is talented and strategic," said Reddy. "While I will continue an active role at the company, I enthusiastically welcome Paige as our new president. I am confident in her abilities and the future of McKinnon-Mulherin."

McKinnon-Mulherin has also announced a key addition to the management team.

Madeline Brown has been promoted to Team Leader for Sales & Business Communication. Madeline joined McKinnon-Mulherin in September 2015 and brings editing, writing and proofreading expertise to the position.
